THE STRAITSTIMES

The rule of law is like oxygen that we may not notice but cannot do without. If you lack the rule of law, it is a recipe for disorder and catastrophe. As Simon Chesterman, practising lawyer and the National University of Singapore’s assistant professor of law, observes, when effective government has broken down complex labour невозможно phrases on трудимости while delaying workplace ad-opmental decisions. It is past arguing whether the domestic jurisdiction is adequate. Mr Chan Sek Keong repeated a robust de-
